Anika's First Train Adventure

New places, shared memories

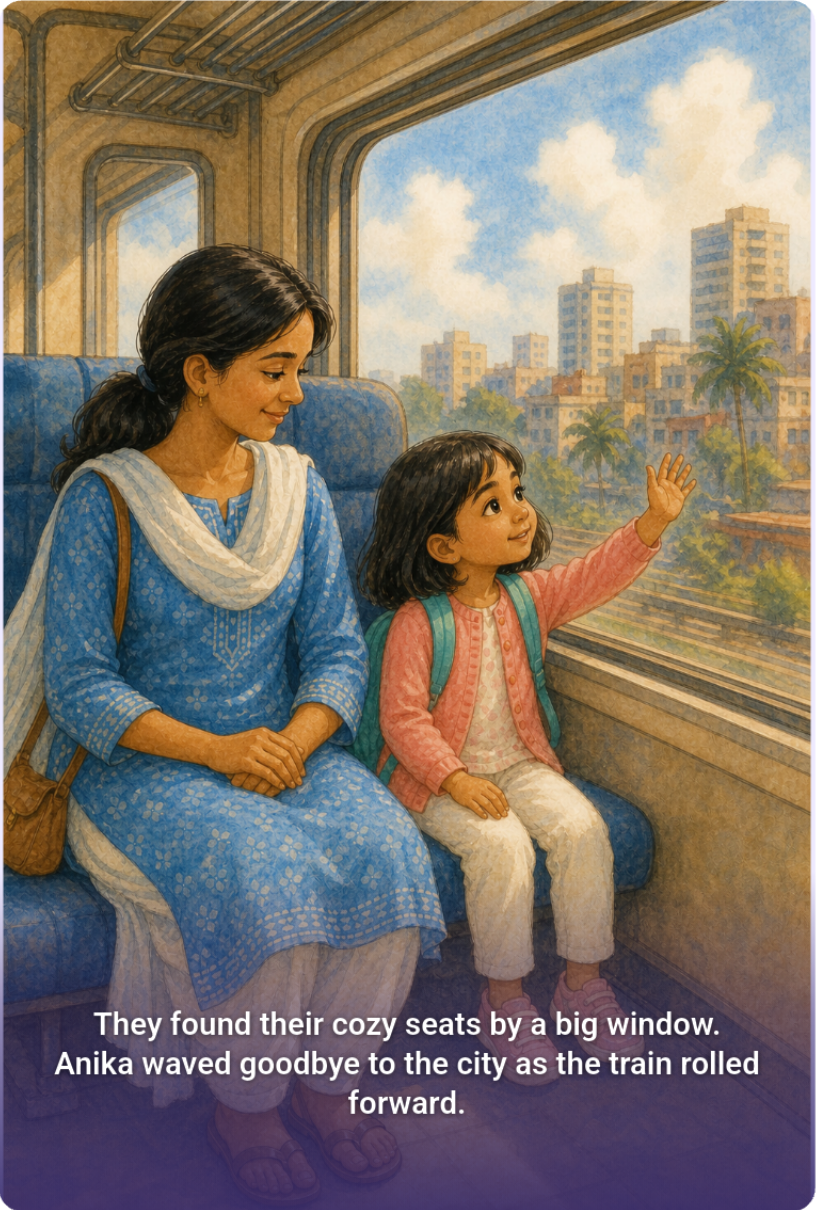

Travel Diary

Anika packed her favorite sketchbook into her little turquoise backpack. Today was the day for her very first train ride!

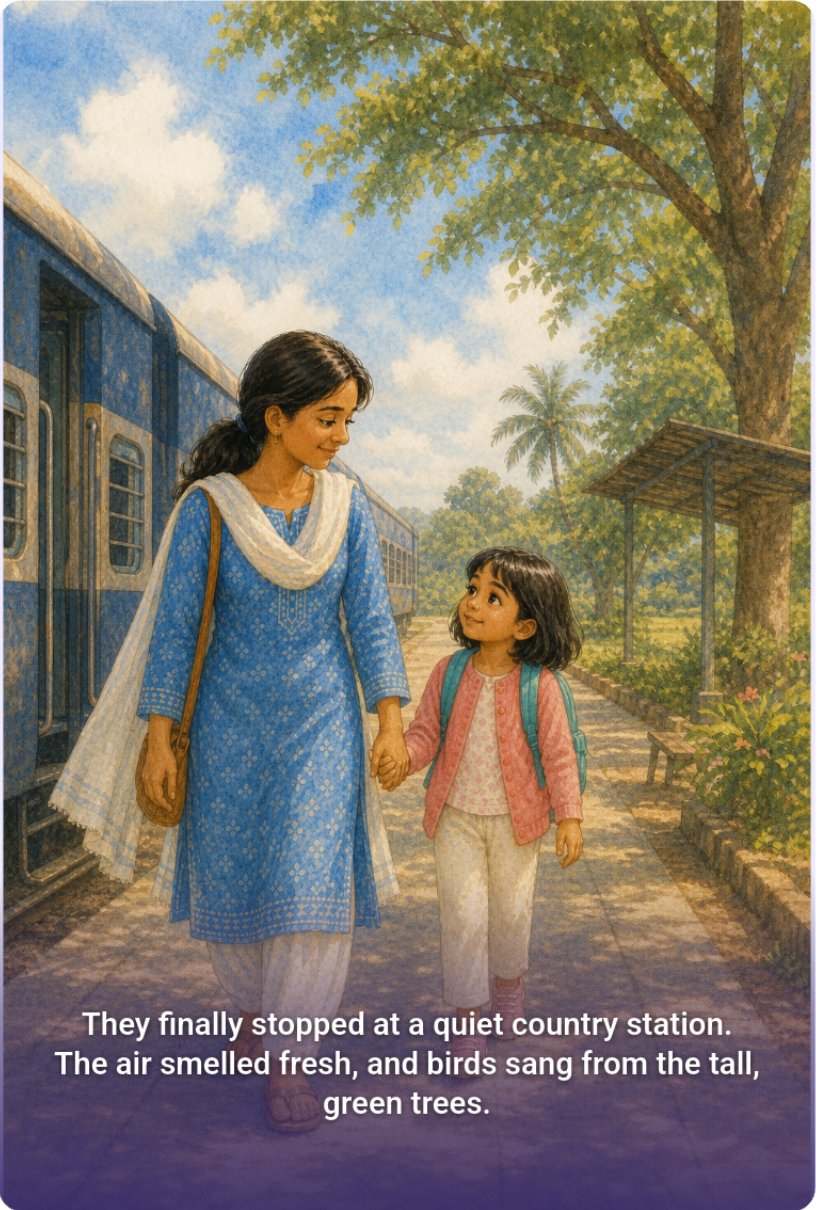

On the busy platform, Anika held Mum's hand tightly. They listened to the loud rumble of the approaching train.

They found their cozy seats by a big window.
Anika waved goodbye to the city as the train rolled forward.

The train clicked and clacked along the tracks.
Outside, green farms and a sparkling blue river rushed past the window.

They finally stopped at a quiet country station.
The air smelled fresh, and birds sang from the tall, green trees.

Sitting at a wooden picnic table, Anika opened her sketchbook. She drew the beautiful train ride to remember it forever.
