Tara's First Day at School

One small step into a new adventure

Milestone Book

Tara packed her little red backpack with Mum. Today was a big adventure. It was her very first day of school.

Standing at the classroom door, Tara felt tiny butterflies in her tummy. Everything was new, and she felt a little nervous.

A kind teacher smiled and welcomed her inside.
The bright room was filled with colorful toys, cozy rugs, and happy faces.

At the art table, Tara took a deep breath. She bravely offered a bright blue crayon to a new friend.

Soon, they were laughing and building a tall tower of colorful blocks together. The butterflies in her tummy gently fluttered away.

When school ended, Tara ran to hug Mum. She proudly shared her drawing, excited for another big adventure tomorrow.
